

Righteous Thoughts Demonstrate Great Power

A Practitioner in China

[Minghui Net]

Story One

A practitioner in China often posted truth-clarifying literature in high-traffic areas such as the entrances to busy workplaces. She posted them at times of the day when many people would pass by, ensuring that a large number of people would have the chance to read them. She kept a peaceful and fearless mind while doing this.

On the evening of June 16, she found an ideal doorway to post her flyers containing the true facts of the persecution against Falun Dafa. The area was very well lit, though, and she thought that it would be better if the lights were off when she was posting materials. As a result of her thoughts when she reached the front door, all of the lights went off. After she finished posting, the lights went on again.

She went to another place to post materials the next day. A woman and a man passed by while she was posting flyers. The woman pointed at her and said accusingly, "She is the one who posts the materials about Falun Gong." The practitioner looked at them peacefully without any fear at all and the two quickly went away. She continued to post materials.

Story Two

An elderly female practitioner went out one day to post truth-clarifying literature. After a while, she realized that someone was following her. She was a little frightened to begin with, feeling that she could not evade him. She then suddenly remembered Teacher Li's words and started to send forth a righteous thoughts, "Freeze there! Don't move!" She looked back at the man following her and saw that he was standing there, not moving. Then she continued on with her posting.

The next day she went about posting materials in another location, and she discovered that several people were following her. This time she sent forth righteous thoughts immediately, "All of you freeze there! Don't move!" As a result, those people stopped at once and did not follow her again. She completed all the postings smoothly.

Story Three

One day when a practitioner was going to go out from his home, he saw that dark clouds covered the sky in the direction he was going. He sent forth the following thought immediately, "Eliminate that evil with all of my power!" He continued sending forth his righteous thoughts while driving in the car and also recited Teacher Li's verse in his mind repeatedly, "The Fa rectifies the cosmos, the Evil is completely eliminated." After a while, the dark clouds disappeared and there was sunshine again.

While he was on the road, a police car suddenly pulled in front of him. The practitioner sent forth a righteous thought without a hesitation, "Stop there and turn around!" After he finished his words, this police car stopped immediately. It made a U-turn and drove off in the other direction immediately. Even the practitioner himself was surprised because he did not realize that a single righteous thought was so powerful.

June 21, 2001

